

Chemical Engineering Program Objectives

During a career as commissioned officers in the United States Army and beyond, program graduates:

- Contribute to the solution of infrastructure or operational problems in a complex operational environment.
- Succeed in graduate school or other advanced study programs.
- Advance their careers through clear and precise technical communication.
- Demonstrate effective leadership and chemical engineering expertise.